

The Secret of the Manuscript

By Anna Maria Mickiewicz

We rise wide awake

Yet clad in clouds

Lavender, roses, fountains

Under the spell

Of ancient courtyards

We enter along jagged blue mosaics

We stumble on the voices

Of angelic Goths

We bid farewell to medieval walls

We open up spaces deafened by unfamiliar lettering

Anna Maria Mickiewicz
Oxford 2012